

Volunteers Needed

100+
Participants Enrolled!

Help Us To Learn More About Bile Duct Cancer!

Bile duct cancer – also called cholangiocarcinoma – is part of the National Cancer Institute's research program. We are inviting patients and survivors of cholangiocarcinoma from around the country to be part of a study to learn more about this rare cancer, especially its genetics.

This research study involves surveys and interviews with participants, a review of previous medical records, and a genetic study of previous biopsy tissue. No extra patient visits or procedures are needed!

If you are interested contact:

Email: pecgs@wustl.edu
Phone: 314-273-2434
Web: sites.wustl.edu/pecgs

Washington University Participant Engagement and Cancer Genome Sequencing (WU-PE-CGS) program, in partnership with The Cholangiocarcinoma Foundation.

